Our Past Unearthed Preparing To Move

By Sue Aucella Deacon

One never knows what one may find while packing up to move — what forgotten treasures and trivia may be tucked away in a seldom-used closet.

Last week, while packing for the move to new municipal offices, a town employee turned up a locked box stashed in a second-floor closet in Town Hall. An old key was attached to the handle of the box by a length of string.

The key worked. And inside the cracked leather box, decorated with metal studs and lined with wallpaper, the town manager found piles of folded documents, packets of papers and small record books. At least one of those fragile papers, with lines of ornate script in faded ink on yellowed paper, is more than 225 years old.

Custodian Walter Muller last week found the compact box buried under piles of more routine cardboard cartons in a neglected closet upstairs in the town house. Town Manager Kenneth Mahony says the closet is part of an addition built in 1942; the antique box was probably stored there some 40 years ago.

The box remained undetected last spring, when a professional archivist searched Town Hall from attic to basement for town records important enough to preserve and move to the new town offices.

The oldest paper found in the box is a bond dated 1758, the manager says. Other documents found in the forgotten box include an account book dated 1796; an eight-year record of the tolls charged at a bridge over the Shawsheen River, beginning in 1823; a book of jurors listed from 1855 to 1881; and records of aid to the poor from the late 1880s, along with other bonds, records and plot maps.

Contents of the box have not yet been thoroughly inventoried, Mahony says, since that work should be done under proper conditions at the Andover Historical Society to prevent damaging the old papers. Some of the documents will probably be retained by the historical society, the manager says.

Eventually, Mahony hopes to see the box and its contents preserved in a special display, either at the new town offices or at the historical society.

Maintenance Work Long-Deferred, To Get Priority Status

By Sue Aucella Deacon

The major increase in this year's town budget, a jump in the municipal maintenance department allowance from a current $1.6 million to $2.6 million, can be attributed to long-deferred maintenance projects, the town manager says — "not items that can just be allowed to go on."

Major work that he would like to see done on town buildings and property — from new roofs to ventilation improvements and playing field renovations — will add up to approximately $3.5 million, Town Manager Kenneth Mahony explains.

He will recommend to the selectmen, and annual town meeting, that the work be done over a four- to five-year period, at about $800,000 per year.

The $800,000 he has budgeted for maintenance projects this year accounts for "much of the increase" in the municipal maintenance department's recommended budget, the manager says. Salary increases make up most of the remaining departmental increase.

Town officials have had "extensive discussions" about how to come up with that $800,000, Mahony says. The alternatives: a bond issue, or raising property taxes by taking advantage of a recent addition to the Proposition 2½ tax-limit law. The manager will ask town meeting to approve the tax-increase alternative.

Town meeting voters would have almost certainly approved a bond issue, the manager believes, because he says taking care of maintenance problems now will save the town money in the long run. But a bond issue would have carried with it years of interest payments.

A new "catch-up" provision in Prop. 2½, on the other hand, will allow the town to "levy a little additional taxes against ourselves for four or five years," the manager says. Under this plan, revenues from the tax increase will be used specifically for maintenance projects.

At the end of four or five years, Andover will be left with "options," Mahony notes: to drop the tax increase, to drop part of it, or to continue with it. He estimates that the increase could add up to $50 per year for the average homeowner (based on an average assessment of $100,000).

(The "catch-up" provision, approved by the state legislature in December, allows

Workshop For Parents Of Teenagers

How many times have parents asked "Is my teenager's behavior normal?" An opportunity to explore the answer to this question and many others will be offered at an evening workshop for Parents of Teenagers on Monday, Feb. 13, at 7:30 p.m. in the Peer Counseling Center on the first floor of Andover High School.

Sponsored by the Advisory Board to the Peer Counseling Project at Andover High School, this workshop is to establish better communication and understanding between parents and teens. Some topics of interest include limit setting, learning to let go and allow your teenager to become independent, single parenting, parenting's stress on the marriage, power struggles with your teenager and what to do.

Parents, too, need support during the teenage years. This workshop hopes to alleviate fears by answering questions. Gary Goldman, a psychologist from Greater Lawrence Psychological Center, will be guest speaker and will lead the discussions. All Andover parents of teenagers are invited to attend. Registration is limited. For further information or to register, contact the Peer Counseling Office at the high school.

Town Boards In Session Next Week

A busy week lies ahead for town officials: The Board of Selectmen, School Committee and Planning Board will all meet next week.

The selectmen will meet at 7:30 Monday night in the new town hall (the old East Junior High) to review the town manager's budget recommendations for fiscal 1985.

The school committee will also review next year's budget, on the school side, when they meet at 7:30 Tuesday night at the Sanborn School on Lovejoy Road.

And the planners will hold a special meeting Tuesday night at the new town hall to discuss zoning articles proposed for annual town meeting.

Senator's Representative At Library

Andover residents who wish to express an opinion on any issue, or have a complaint, problem or suggestion about the workings of state government are welcomed to attend.

Diane Haynes of Senator Patricia McGovern's staff will hold office hours at Memorial Hall Library on February 7 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

High School Parents To Meet

The Parent's Group at Andover High School will meet on Wednesday, Feb. 8, in the Career Resource Center at 7:30 p.m. One of the topics to be discussed will be computer education.

Early Release Program Approved

Deserving Andover High School seniors will be sprung from school ten days earlier than their peers this spring, to give them a jump on the summer job market. (The actual release date has not been set, since the last day of school for all seniors depends on the number of snow days that may still be ahead.)

The School Committee last week unanimously approved early dismissal for seniors who have had no more than 30 absences during three years in high school, have passed all academic classes (with no incompletes), and have demonstrated "good effort and attitude in all classes" and "school citizenship."

Student Advisory Council President Elaine Scanlon told the committee that many students are counting on summer income to help finance their continuing education next fall. Superintendent Kenneth Seifert noted that to disapprove the early dismissal request "really would be penalizing" those students, who must compete with other high school students and college students for summer jobs.

The school committee had no problem with approving the request — and at least two committeemen noted that with Andover High seniors of their own at home, they would have been in serious trouble had they voted otherwise.

Town Offices On The Move Friday

Town Hall, the Community Development and Planning Department and the Council on Aging will be closed Friday, Feb. 3, while those offices are moved to the new municipal office complex on Bartlet Street.

All offices will re-open on Monday, Feb. 6, in the new building.

Townspeople should note that town offices will now have new telephone numbers as well: the new Council on Aging number is 470-3830, while the main number for all other offices is 470-3800. On Friday, emergency calls can be made to 470-3800.

Breakfast, Ski Trek Scheduled For Sunday

The annual breakfast and cross-country ski event, tri-sponsored by Andover Conservation Commission, AVIS and Andover Committee of the Appalachian Mountain Club will be held Sunday, Feb. 5, at Harold Rafton Reservation, Andover. A free breakfast at 9 a.m. will start skiers (snowshoers are welcome also) off on the start of a day of skiing the trails of the reservation with leaders for beginners, intermediate and expert levels of skiing available. Parking will be in the parking lot on top of Bald Hill on High Plain Road, Andover. There will be a hike if there is no snow.

Outing Preparations

Preparing themselves for the Sunday outing at the Harold R. Rafton Reservation are; Jean Serino of Hudson, N.H., David Dargie and Bindy Friedrich both of Andover. The reservation is located on High Plain Road.

The largest of the AVIS reservations and one that is particularly popular now for cross-country skiing and snowshoeing is the Harold Rafton Reservation. Strategically located at the junction of Routes 93 and 495, it comprises 220 acres of woodland. It was established with several purchases of land starting with one from the Bailey estate in 1963. During the year trails are utilized for wildflower and bird walks and the area supports a wide variety of mushrooms as well.

In 1968 AVIS named this the Harold Rafton Reservation to honor a man who was dedicated to conservation and land preservation. Through his continued efforts AVIS lands have increased to nearly 900 acres.

The reservation is located on High Plain Road about one mile west of the Greenwood Road intersection. A large wooden sign identifies the entrance. A network of trails, including several loops, covers the area. All are well marked and well tracked because of frequent use.

A complimentary breakfast will be offered from 9 a.m. to noon to all who come out to try the trails on Sunday, Feb. 5.

Silkworm eggs are so small that 35,000 of them weigh just one ounce.

Pike Youngsters Assist

Thanks to the efforts of students at the Pike School in Andover, thousands of rural families overseas are benefiting from a special "CARE for the Earth" environmental development program being carried out by CARE in 14 nations.

Richard Calandrella, CARE's director of development in New England, reported that students in the third, fourth and fifth grades at the school donated $50 to the proceeds from a bake sale they held under the guidance of the Student Government.

Calandrella said that CARE initiated this special program in 1981 under a matching grant provision with the U.S. Agency for International Development and that "donor response and the success of these programs overseas has been outstanding."

He said the "CARE for the Earth" program involves such projects as:

Reforestation through which millions of tree seedlings are being cultivated and planted in Third World nations to replace forests which are cut down for firewood and building materials and never replaced.

Land terracing and contour ditching to prevent soil erosion and increase land available for farming.

Windbreak planting to protect precious farmland from wind and sun damage.

Tree nursery expansion to provide cultivation plots for millions of tree seedlings for future projects.

Irrigation and water systems development to insure adequate supplies of water, even during times of drought.

Calandrella said these "seemingly simple" projects are providing thousands of people overseas "with the precious resources they need to conserve and develop the land upon which they live and depend for their survival."

It is estimated that an adult will average two colds a year and school children average eight colds a year.

Ballardvale Is Topic For Historical Program

by Virginia Lopez Begg

Ballardvale, named for a descendant of one of Andover's founders over 300 years ago, will be the subject of a program entitled "Ballard Vale in its Hey Day" at the Andover Historical Society on Sunday, Feb. 5, at 2 p.m. and 3 p.m. Ruth Sharpe of the Ballardvale Branch Library will present the program which will include many interesting and little-known facts about this historic area of Andover. There will be a small admission fee and seating is on a first-come basis.

In the late 18th century, Timothy Ballard, sixth in descent from William Ballard, owned not only much of the land in this area but also the "privileges" of the Shawsheen River. These privileges were invaluable in an age when water power was the only power available for mills—the mills which ground flour, made gunpowder and, from the beginning of the 19th century, began to work the looms of the textile industry.

In 1836, as news of the great experiment down the road in Lowell reverberated around the world, three Andover entrepreneurs, John Marland, Abraham Gould and Mark H. Newman, bought the land and river "privileges" of Timothy Ballard and created a mill and village called Ballard Vale.

Although woolen cloth, especially the white flannels so characteristic of gracious living in that era, was the primary product, other textiles were also manufactured. There as even an attempt for a time to grow mulberry trees, raise silk worms and produce silk cloth in the great "silk bubble" which swept the eastern United States.

Other manufacturing operations also located in Ballardvale. The blue-decorated stoneware, so sought after today by antique collectors, was made by the Ballard Vale Stoneware Manufacturing Co. for ten years. A representative collection of this stoneware is on view at the Andover Historical Society. Other products, such as locomotives and steel files, were also manufactured by other companies.

For residents of the village along the winding Shawsheen life was pleasant and came to include memorable Fourth of July celebrations, picnics at the Grove, to which excursion trains came from Boston, and dances at the Canoe House.

Ballardvale today is one of Andover's most historic areas. It continues to be a vital community, proud of its past and planning for the future. The Andover Historical Society invites the public to its Ballardvale program to learn more about the village on the Shawsheen.

The Andover Historical Society is a non-profit educational institution open to member and public use. For information on open hours, membership, program, call the society office Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The snow date for this program is Sunday, Feb. 12, at 2 p.m. and 3 p.m.

Youngsters At West Explore What Their Future May Hold

By Sue Aucella Deacon

What's it really like to be a doctor? (Or a lawyer, pilot, computer programmer?) And why should a 13-year-old with medical (or legal, flying, programming) ambitions have to wait to grow up and finish years of training to find out?

Some 120 West Junior High School seventh, eighth and ninth-graders are getting a glimpse into their potential futures this year, as WJH opens its doors to let in a little of the real world with an experimental program called the Explorer Institute.

The Explorer Institute invites professional people from the Greater Lawrence area to the junior high for after-school and evening sessions with small groups of students. The groups began meeting once or twice a week during December, and will continue meeting through the end of the school year.

Interested students have signed up for programs on medicine, communications, science, the law, flying, woodworking. The program most in demand — no surprise in this, the much-touted Computer Age — is a computer course, which meets in eight sessions for intermediate and advanced students, plus an accelerated session.

Why would a student sign up for a voluntary after-school program, with no grades and no course credits? "It provides an opportunity to pursue a career interest, or a leisure-time interest, in an informal setting with an adult who has expertise in that area," West Principal William Hart explains.

"The student should be able to go as far as he wants — even if he decides, 'This isn't for me.' Getting into the nitty-gritty of medicine, say — it would be great if a student finds out it isn't for him now, instead of halfway through medical school."

A survey of ninth-graders' career and leisure interests last year inspired the Explorer Institute. Students' top three career choices: medicine, law, computer programming. (The bottom three were architecture, journalism and electronics, with such choices as nursing, professional athletics, flying, music and law enforcement falling in between.)

Armed with computer printouts on each student's first- and second-choice career and leisure interests, the West principal asked. "How can we accomodate, in the school setting, some of these interests?" Mr. Hart recalls. Since the school had neither staff nor budget to create programs on law or medicine, for example, the principal began to "seek resources" outside West.

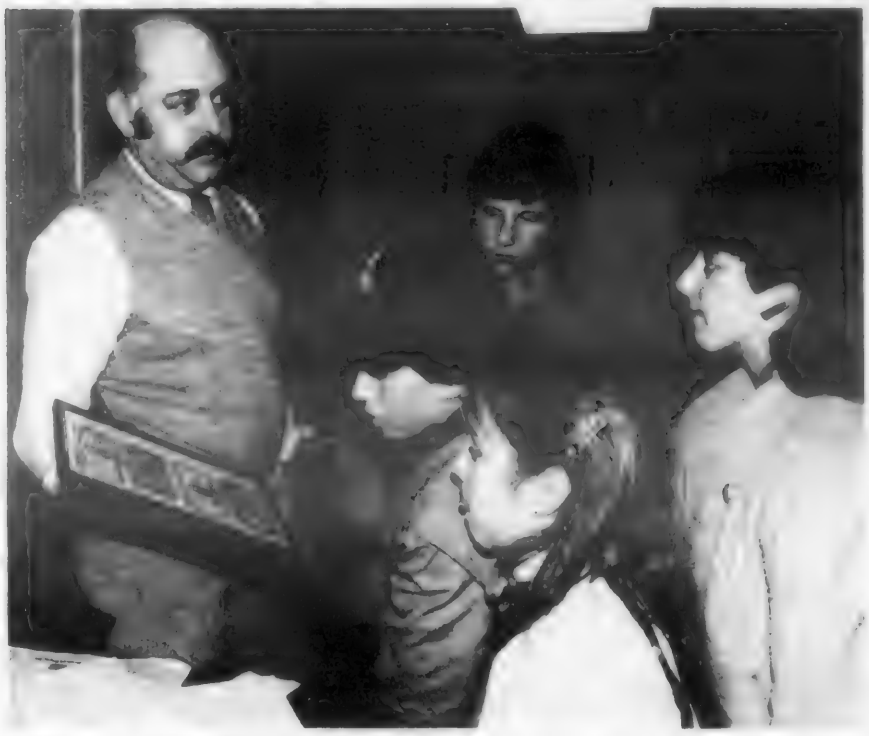

He found what he was looking for in Duane Powell, director of the Boy Scouts' Explorer Post, North Essex Council, Lawrence, and Powell's assistant, Betsy Brook.

They put together a listing of Greater Lawrence professional people willing to come to school and talk about their work or free-time interests. For three six-week periods (once in fall, winter and spring), West set aside one period each week during the school day when ninth-graders could meet with these speakers. More than 100 community people participated in the program last year (and are still available to teachers who wish to bring them into class.)

At the same time, the school's supply of computers was upped from "one or two" to about a dozen, and Mr. Hart wanted to take advantage of that windfall.

Townsman Photos by Carl Russo

He tapped Steve Fletcher, father of an eighth-grader and an informations systems manager for Wang, to help develop an evening computer course for students. Parent-volunteers were recruited to help teach five programming courses that combined academics with a chance to use the computers.

When the trial computer program began, "every single course was over-subscribed — to our amazement," Mr. Hart says. "We hadn't expected such a great response." He was struck not just by the way students picked up on the opportunity to "pursue their own interests after school," but by how enthusiastic parents were about "contributing their unique talents. We were delighted with the response."

The next step was to stretch the evening program to include other career/leisure areas besides computers. Mr. Hart called in Mr. Powell and Ms. Brooks during the summer to help him "expand the concept." The program would be opened up to seventh-and eighth-graders, along with the ninth-graders; and all courses would be held after school, either in the afternoon or at night.

More volunteers would be needed: The principal wondered, "Who'll give the time?" He made a pitch for the newly-christened Explorer Institute to parents during an open house at the school in October. And a brochure was sent home with students, inviting both students and parent-volunteers to register for the new program.

Mr. Hart and his staff at West "didn't know who was going to come" to sign up for the institute, but on registration night, "lo and behold, there was a big long stream of parents and kids" ready to sign up.

With 121 students registered and more than a dozen parents enlisted to lead small groups of seven to 19 students, Explorer Institute sessions began meeting in late November and early December, for an hour or two once or twice a week.

Steve Fletcher returned to continue leading the computer sessions, which "pick up where the school curriculum leaves off," he explains. The intermediate sessions help the group become "more familiar with the computer," and toward the end of the program, begin teaching computer graphics.

The advanced session focuses on graphics: By the end, students can write their own game programs, Mr. Fletcher says — something they find "exciting and fun." And students in the "more loosely-structured" accelerated session simply "do their own stuff", projects they would not have a chance to do during the school day.

Student response to the institute sessions has been, he says, "tremendous. All the kids really want to do it — they're really motivated." The eight or ten parents who lead the sessions are "really having a tremendous time" as well, he adds. "The parents are having a lot of fun, and the kids are having a lot of fun."

Donna Baron agrees. An attorney with a practice in Lowell and the mother of a WJH ninth-grader, she is one of three parents leading an institute group on law (along with Ellen Zepeto and John Spignesi). "I love it, I really do," she says. The thought of heading out for the sessions on Tuesday nights after a long day at work is sometimes daunting, she admits, "but once I get there, I really enjoy the contact with the group."

Her session will show students as much as possible about the legal profession between now and the spring — "a blitz" —with the students leading the way. "It's up to them to put out what their interests are," Atty. Baron notes. "It's not up to us to feed them or lecture them. The kids keep the ball moving along."

So far, the students have been most interested in criminal law. They've reviewed the documentation of one of the attorney's (closed) criminal cases, from indictment papers to trial transcripts, and came up with "lots of common-sense questions."

The group recently visited the police station for a look at booking procedures. Future plans include a possible visit to a trial in Lowell Superior Court and a law school class — and in coming weeks, the group will probably begin exploring other aspects of the profession, such as family law, real estate and contracts.

The attorney is impressed with the students in her session ("They're a very bright group"), and especially with "the interest that girls have shown" in the law.

Paul Salafia, a WJH parent who leads a communications session (along with Paula Eichner), says his own experience illustrates the importance of the institute. He runs Advertising Management Services, a thriving Andover advertising agency, but didn't realize he was interested in communications until he was midway through college — and

Chinese New Year Observed

More than 170 members and guests gathered at West Elementary School, Andover, on Saturday, Jan. 28, to help the Andover Chinese-Cultural Exchange in its first annual celbration of the coming of the Chinese New Year, Feb. 2.

An 18-foot dragon, made by Dr. Sewi Yu, hung from the ceiling. Beneath the dragon were two masterful calligraphies, the work of Andover artist Han-Chin Loh, bearing the messages "Happy New Year" and "Good Fortune in the New Year." In between the calligraphies, a bright red and yellow poster announced the the Year of the Rat, 4682, was upon them.

After a Chinese dinner, the children recited a Chinese poem and sang Chinese and American songs, under the guidance of Priscilla Hunt, Olivia Li and students Sandra Liaw and Leashanne Chen. Piano solos by Damen Hunt, Steven Li, Leashanne Chen, Joanna Li and Sandra Liaw followed.

The highlight of the children's program was the customary giving of red envelopes to children by their parents. They each received a "Heung-bow" from parent representative Yuan-Lai Shao of North Andover. Shao and (any of the children were dressed in traditinal robes or jackets. The words, "gung-shi, gung-shi," (Happy New Year) were exchanged.

Peter Wu, president of this newly-formed, non-profit organization, felt the evening's success was due to the hard work of many members.

To Establish Historic District

An Andover student has been elected by "Yankee" Magazine and the National Trust for Historic Preservation to help establish an historic district in Greenfield.

Gail P. Fisk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James, 362 High Plain Road, will do architectural surveys and archival research on old homes and buildings so they may be listed in the register of historic places.

Fisk will live in historic Deerfield and work at Greenfield Town Hall during her three-month project.

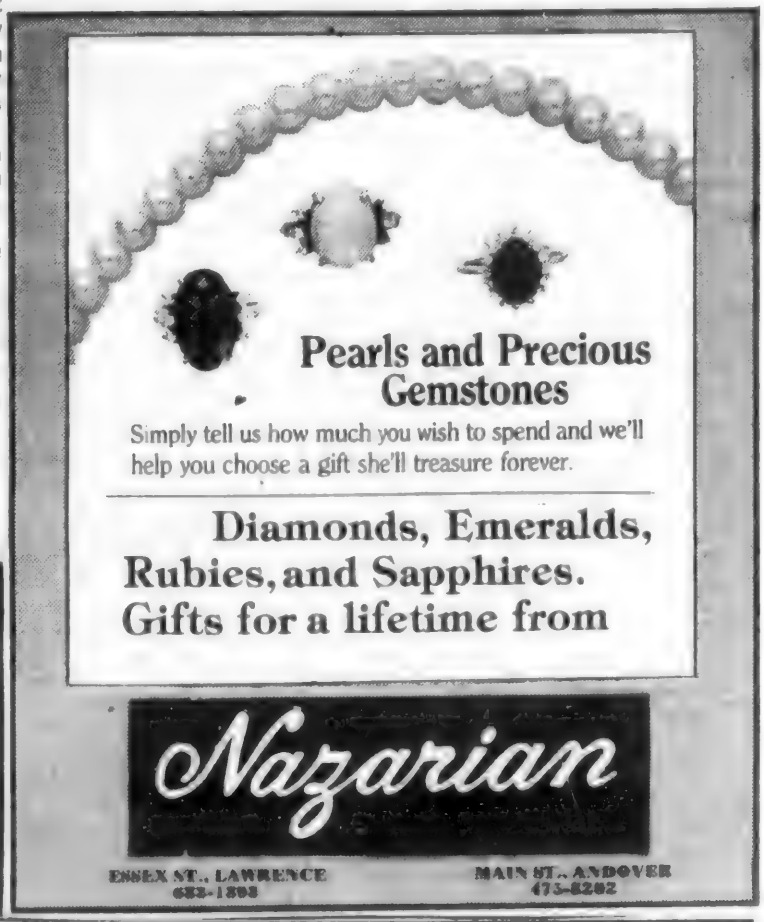

She is one of six interns chosen by "Yankee" to work on preservation projects throughout New England. The program is funded by "Yankee" Magazine subscribers who donated 25 cents each and Yankee Publishing Inc., which matches subscriber donations. The National Trust chooses participants and coordinates projects.

In December, Fisk graduated summa cum laude from the University of Rhode Island with a degree in journalism and political science. She intends to study law and preservation studies at Boston University this fall.

The Day Division Nursing Program at Northern Essex Community College is ranked number one among the 17 two- and four-year Schools of Nursing in Massachusetts.

Notification of the first-place ranking was made by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Board of Registration in Nursing.

Goodbye Card Catalog

Libraries today hold a wealth of information. Cataloging this information so that it is up-to-date and easily available to patrons has become increasingly difficult. With a giant step forward, Andover's Memorial Hall Library, in consortium with ten other Merrimack Valley libraries, has installed the LIBS 100 public access catalog which will, in the not too distant future, eliminate the card catalog altogether.

For over a year and a half the staff has been entering Memorial Hall Library's collecion into the computer's database and on Sunday, Feb. 5, at 1 p.m. they will unveil six new public terminals and will demonstrate to patrons the many advantages and ease of operation of "The Cat-a-List," Andover's new public access catalog. Andover is the first public library in the state to provide public access terminals for its patrons.

With a simple touch of the screen, patrons may search by author, title or subject to locate information. The "Cat-a-List" will display complete bibliographic data about a specific entry, Memorial Hall Library's holdings, other area library holdings, its location (call number) in the library and its status (i.e., whether the book is on the shelf or when the book is due).

In addition to the library's books, records, tapes, video-cassettes and art prints, all of "Answers" community information files covering Greater Lawrence clubs, organizations and social service agencies have been entered into the database for patron convenience.

Many members of the Friends of the Library, coordinated by Volunteer Chairmanf Vicki Kubacki and trained by systems analyst Evelyn Kuo, will assist the staff in demonstrating "Cat-a-List" to patrons during the first few weeks of operation.

Director Nancy Jacobson invites townspeople to visit the library on Sunday, Feb. 5, or in the near future to see how the new terminals simplify the library's catalog and provide more complete information faster than ever before.

Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts Friday, Feb. 17, at 8 p.m. to frolic with Banjo Dan and the Mid-Nite Plowboys from Vermont and Country Gazette from Oklahoma in "A Night of Country Music."

Many of Banjo Dan's followers are folks who had no prior exposure to bluegrass but saw them at one or more of their concert engagements and have become solid foot stompin', hand-clapping bluegrass enthusiasts.

Country Gazette, in their New England debut, have been called "America's most versatile bluegrass band." Each year they travel more than 80,000 miles and have played in more than 40 states from the college and university circuit to fairs, concert halls and festivals.

Eligible

Working poor families with medical problems got a helping hand from the state. A change in the so called "standard of need" means a family of three earning up to $627 per month could now be eligible for Medicaid.

A 5 percent increase in the standard of need was approved by the Legislature last summer and went into effect recently as part of the Department of Public Welfare's Fiscal Year 1984 budget.

The standard of need is an eligibility standard for Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) and Medicaid. The increase in the standard will have the greatest impact on working poor families.

Country Music Workshops Set

A "hands-on" guitar picking workshop will be included in the two workshops on bluegrass music scheduled at the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts, Shawsheen Road (on the campus of Andover High School), off Route 133, Andover, on Friday, Feb. 17. The workshops will be conducted by members of the Country Gazette, direct from Oklahoma, in conjunction with the appearance of their band, along with Banjo Dan and the Mid-Nite Plowboys, in a night of country music at 8 p.m. that night.

The guitar workshop is geared to the serious guitar student who wishes to better understand how to play bluegrass music. A guitar is required.

The second workshop will be geared to those interested in obtaining more information on the general subject of bluegrass music. Topics will include the historical origins of bluegrass music, the interpretation in different parts of the country and famous bluegrass artists.

There is no charge for these workshops, but pre-registration is needed. Each workshop is limited to 25 participants.

Country Gazette, Banjo Dan and the Mid-Nite Plowboys will present a community concert in a unique blending of bluegrass from Vermont and the Midwest. Tickets may be obtained at the Collins Center Bos Office daily from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., the Andover Bank, Main Street, Andover, and "Just for You," 36 Main St., Andover.

Group discounts are available. For further information, call the Collins Center.

To Improve Telephone Services

New England Telephone is expanding and improving local telephone facilities in West Andover.

Public Relations Manager Cynthia Austin said, "The new facilities will provide additional cable capacity and improved service to meet the present and future calling needs of West Andover telephone customers served by the Lawrence exchange."

Nearly two miles of aerial cable and three Subscriber Loop Carrier Systems (SLCS) will be installed along River Road.

The SLCS will be placed in a "Mini-Hut' cabinet and will use digital transmission to provide low-noise telephone communications. They also will allow for future expansion using existing cables.

"Another advantage of having digital transmission is that it provides a good medium for special service lines such as the ones used to transfer data between computers," Austin aid.

When the work—already underway—is completed early next year, the new facilities will provide state-of-the-art service for residential and business customers in the rapidly growing West Andover area.

This is one of many such projects New England Telephone is undertaking this year as part of its multi-million dollar program to expand and improve telephone service in Massachusetts.

The Old Town House Gets Locked Tonight

Today is your last chance to do town business at Town Hall on Main Street: Tomorrow all offices will be moved out of the 120-year-old building and down the street to the new municipal office center on Bartlet Street — which was once part of East Junior High.

Offices of the Community Development and Planning Department and the Council on Aging will begin moving out of their quarters in the Essex Street Theatre Building tomorrow afternoon, and finish the move on Saturday.

Town offices will be closed during the move Friday, and will re-open for business Monday morning in the two East Junior High wings that have beep renovated to house all town and school offices. (School offices will move from the Shawsheen School during February school vacation, the week of Feb. 19.)

The Boston moving company of Casey and Hayes has been busy packing up Town Hall during recent weeks, while over at the new building, work crews were putting final touches on the offices this week — setting up partitions and shelves, painting and cleaning up.

The move will start Friday morning on the second floor of Town Hall, where the town manager's office is located. The movers will then work their way down to the first floor, where the town clerk's, assessors' and tax collector's offices are located.

Town Manager Kenneth Mahony indicated this week that the first floor offices will actually remain open for business Friday while the second floor is being moved.

Andover Office Associates, a part of Channel Building of Andover, is paying for the move as part of its contract to renovate the former junior high school for the town.

Parking at the new building will be tricky — "chaotic" — during the weeks ahead, Mahony predicted. The town will go out to bid for work on a new parking lot later this month, but in the meantime townspeople visiting the new municipal offices will have to find parking on Bartlet and Whittier streets.

Town employees are being urged to park in the former Purity Supreme lot down the street, or behind the school building in a lot near the school ball field, the manager said.

The entrance to the new building is located on Bartlet Street, opposite Punchard Avenue.

With Town Hall about to be left behind, the town's Reuse Committee must now find a new use for the building. Committee members have indicated that they would like Andover to hold onto the building and lease it to tenants while preserving the historic structure.

Shawsheen School will be returned to school use next fall — most likely as an early childhood education center, according to a recent School Committee vote — and the theatre building will be demolished to make way for an addition to Memorial Hall Library.

Art Exhibit

The paintngs of Em Marquis Brown, well-known Marblehead artist, will be on display each weekday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. through February 10 at the American Mutual Insurance Companies in Wakefield.

Brown studied at the Museum of Fine Arts Boston, Art Students League, New York, with Rockport artists Isabel La Freniere, Helen Van Wyck, Betty Lou Schlem and did self study in Paris, France.

This exhibit presents work in oil and watercolor. There are paintings showing Boston scenes. She spent this past summer painting in the White Mountains of New Hampshire and there are two paintings representing this area.

The public is welcome to view this exhibit.

A pinch of baking soda added to the water when cooking dried beans will improve their texture and prevent mushiness and cracking. Don't salt until the beans are tender.

another major. That education switch cost him an extra year of college.

Through the Explorer Institute, "I'm giving the kids a real-life situation," he says. "I want them to experience the professional world prior to ever getting involved with it — I think it can really help kids to decide."

The 15 students in his program have broken down into small groups to form their own "companies", and each has chosen a "client." After deciding the best way to represent their clients, the groups will produce newspaper and magazine ads, tape radio spots and shoot television commercials, working at Mr. Salafia's offices on Post Office Avenue. The students are enthusiastic — and the advertising pro says he is "having a ball."

Gary Clarke, an FAA pilot and ex-Air Force pilot who still flies weekends with the Air Force reserves (and father of four, including two WJH students), is offering a session on flying. The institute gives his group a chance to ask "so many questions" about how to become a pilot: "It's nice," he says. "I never had anyone tell me at that age how to go about it."

Last month, the pilot took his group to Logan Airport, where they toured the control tower, the cockpits of a 747 and an L-1011, cargo areas, and viewed a damaged plane (one that recently landed with its landing gear up). In previous weeks, the group saw films on the history of aircraft and pilots' medical issues. And in the weeks ahead, they may visit Pease Air Force Base, Hanscom Air Force Base, and the Lawrence municipal airport.

Like the other volunteer parents, Mr. Clarke says of the program, "I love it. I probably enjoy it more than the kids do —but I don't tell them that."

The parents commend Principal Hart for conceiving of and nurturing the Explorer Institute. "It's a good idea," Atty. Baron says. "I wish more professionals had come in to school when I was that age."

Mr. Hart says the program has the potential for spreading to other Andover schools, but only after it's been carefully evaluated at the end of this year's sessions. "I want to make an honest assessment of it before I trumpet it," he says.

But he adds with confidence, "Conceptually, it is very powerful. It's a marvelous opportunity to expand our resources —we're getting educational resources free of charge. Any time we can do that, and do it effectively, we should do it."

Perhaps the Explorer Institute's brightest selling point is that it "brings the outside community into the schools, and gives us a chance to go to the outside," the principal says. "It helps break down the isolation that can exist, and does exist, in school. And after all, the school belongs to the community."

Use evaporated milk to add richness to creamy soups. Because it's concentrated cow's milk with half the water removed, one half cup is equal in nutrients and milk solids to one cup of Vitamin D-enriched milk.

Church Offers Evensong

The Schola Cantorum of Christ Church Episcopal Church, 25 Central Street, Andover, will sing the service of Evensong at 4 p.m. on the first Sunday of February, March and April. The Rev. James Diamond will preside as priest and the music will be under the direction of Earl L. Miller, music director

The service of Evensong first appeared in the Church of England, from which the American Episcopal Church originated, in the middle of the 16th century. It is an adaptation of the Roman Catholic Vespers services, which is of ancient origin.

What sets the vespers and Evensong services apart from other liturgical celebrations is that these were the first services in which the early plainsong chants were permitted to be embellished. As a result, the great composers were given freedom to create music aside from the traditional chants for the evening service.

Evensong has become Snown as the great musical service of the Episcopal church. Although it is seldom celebrated on a regular basis in the parishes of this country (in England nearly every church has a weekly Evensong service), the music warrants exposure

Evensong is quiet, meditative, peaceful. The principal canticles (choral pieces with scriptural texts) are the Magnificat or Song of Mary ("My soul doth magnify the Lord") and the Nunc Dimittis or Song of Simeon ("Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace").

On February 5 the Schola will sing a service written by the 16th century English composer, Thomas Morley. Morley holds a rather unusual place in the great English church tradition for he was a Roman Catholic serving the Church of England. In his setting of the service, he combines the traditional Gregorian Chant with a later development of part writing

The Schola Cantorum of Christ Church is a group of 12 adult singers who specialize in music of the Anglican tradition with an emphasis on literature from the 16th and 17th century.

Two Condominium Proposals Set To Face Town Meeting Action

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Two condominium proposals are headed for town meeting, the TOWNSMAN learned this week, while a third condo plan may or may not come before voters in April.

James Barenboim of Andover will ask town meeting to rezone a 12.5-acre Shawsheen Village site from single-residence zoning to an apartment zone, to allow him to build 29 $200,000 townhouse units.

And Robert Flannery of Andover will ask voters to rezone a 33-acre site off North Street from a single-residence zone to apartment zoning, to permit construction of a large condominium development. (Flannery's plans are currently being revised, but his original plan called for 228 $100,000 units.)

However, the plans of Theodore Sullivan of Tewksbury remain unknown. Sullivan recently presented the Planning Board with a proposal for approximately 132 condominium units, to sell at $175,000 to $200,000, for a 33-acre site off Bellevue Road. The site is currently zoned for single residences.

Sullivan could not be reached for comment this week. Andover Community Development and Planning Director Jonathan Gilmore said he has not heard from the developer since the planning board presentation three weeks ago, and does not know if Sullivan intends to pursue the plan.

The planners had major concerns about Sullivan's plan, centered on lack of sewer service and adequate water service to the site, and considered it the most problematical of the three condo proposals, Gilmore said.

The board saw the Shawsheen Village plan as the most promising, according to Gilmore. Barenboim, who will present his plans to the selectmen on Monday, Feb. 13, hopes to rezone his Poor Street site from its current Single Residence A status to an apartment zone.

He maintained last week that such rezoning could not be called spot zoning — an objection town officials and voters frequently raise to proposed zone changes —because it is adjacent to an existing apartment zone, one which includes the Aberdeen condominiums on North Main Street. Barenboim said he is not seeking a new zone for the area, but the expansion of an existing apartment zone to include his site.

Barenboim's parcel overlooks Hussey's Pond and is opposite Windsor Street. In plans drawn by Matarazzo Designs of Concord, he has proposed 29 units in six two-story buildings — which, he said, would be set 300 to 400 feet back from the road and would not be visible from Poor Street.

The buildings would be designed to resemble existing houses in the historic neighborhood, he said: from brick facades to the details of the chimney design.

Barenboim said he intends to develop the site even if town meeting turns down his proposed zone change. His alternative is 14 single-family houses, and a design that would require cutting down more trees and more earth removal than the condo plan. Condominiums, he said, would have "the least impact on the neighborhood."

Flannery has also decided to bring his proposal before town meeting with a request for apartment zoning, Andover Atty. Gerald Cohen said this week. The North Street parcel is located in a Single Residence C zone near the West Andover industrial park.

After hearing the developer's presentation, the planning board was most concerned about density: 228 units on 33 acres would multiply the existing single-residence density by seven. Potential traffic impact on the area was another of the planners' concerns.

Flannery's engineers have been meeting with town staffers and working on design revisions, Cohen said. They will appear before the planners again next Tuesday night.

The attorney said the plans are still undergoing changes, based on the concerns of town officials, and he was not sure how many units will be included in the final plans that will come before town meeting.

The planners will hold public hearings on zoning changes proposed by town officials on Feb. 21 and Feb. 28. The Feb. 28 hearing will begin at 8 p.m. in the west wing of the new town hall (formerly East Junior High School), for the discussion of six possible zoning changes that will appear on the annual warrant.

The community development director termed three of the proposals routine "bookkeeping" items, while the remaining articles deal with public parking in the downtown business district and multi-family use of single-family homes located in the SRC district, a proposal defeated by town meeting last year.

A Free Ski Trail Open As Forest Ski Issue Remains Unresolved

The legal struggle over a private cross-country ski concession proposed for Harold Parker State Forest remains unresolved after 14 months of controversy, but state officials have designated one trail for the exclusive (free) use of skiers this winter.

That decision has left some Andover residents, particularly horseback riders, "very perturbed," according to the chairman of the Harold Parker State Forest Advisory Committee.

State officials and a group of ten local residents had hoped for a judge's decision Jan. 3 in Suffolk Superior Court to end a battle that began in November 1982 over six miles of ski trails proposed for the Salem Pond area of the forest

The residents want to stop a state plan to lease the trails to Carlisle businessman Duane Johnstone, who would run the trails and turn over a small part of his profits to the state. Johnstone's concession, which the state wants to permit for a two-year trial period, would include a loop of groomed ski trails, ski lessons and night skiing

The judge's decision has now been scheduled for March

But during January, the state's Department of Environmental Management (DEM) began reserving a part of Johnstone's proposed trails, a one and one-half mile inner loop, for free cross-country skiing run by DEM. Parking areas are plowed to serve the ski area, and wooden signs have been erected prohibiting uses other than skiing on the trail

Forest Advisory Committee Chairman Margaret Keck of Andover this week said the new ski trail has "caused a lot of trouble" and angered members of her committee

Many area residents from Andover, North Andover and North Reading have long used that trail for horseback riding because it loops through the forest and lets riders avoid using roadways, she said. Other use of the trail, such as hiking and snowmobiling, has also been prohibited

And advisory committee members have been upset by the DEM's action because the chairman said, they were promised last fall that the state would consult them before making major decisions about recreational use of the forest — and the use of ski trails. Keck said, "was known to be a very controversial matter

Committee members objected to the state's "unilateral decision" to designate

Shannon Announcing Senate Candidacy

Fifth District Congressman James Shannon whose district includes Andover, will announce today that he is a candidate for the U.S. Senate seat being vacated by Senator Paul Tsongas of Lowell

Shannon is scheduled to make his announcement in various parts of the state beginning at 10 this morning in Boston and concluding with a reception at Hibernian Hall in Lawrence at 9 tonight

In announcing his candidacy, Shannon joins a wide field seeking the senatorial seat which is being vacated by Tsongas for health reasons

In like manner, Shannon's announcement today is expected to set off a rush of candidates for the congressional vacancy

Among those considering running is former State Rep. Gerald M. Cohen of Andover.

Cohen, now in private law practice in Andover, retired from state office last year after having risen from being Andover's first sole representative on Beacon Hill to the chairmanship of the Committee on Taxation.

The Andover resident said Wednesday that he is seriously considering the congressional race although no formal decision will be made immediately. Cohen said the matter is still in the planning stages. He has talked with people throughout the district is setting up meetings and having some preliminary polling done in anticipation of making the decision

He said his concerns lie with continuing to serve the interests of the Greater Lawrence, Greater Lowell areas particularly, since the district has maintained representation from those two areas for some time

The Shawsheen Decision

It would seem inordinately premature to be so concerned about the proposed use of the Shawsheen school as evidenced by communications and petitions presented to the school committee last week.

Petitions bearing the signatures of over 200 townspeople informed the board that in their opinion converting the Shawsheen to an early childhood education center would be a 'grave mistake.'

Shawsheen residents wrote the committee asking consideration of reopening the building as neighborhood K-6 school.

While both groups may have valid points, they would appear to be only minute and self-serving considerations upon which the school committee must ultimately make their final decision.

The overriding factor in the ultimate designation of the Shawsheen building fitting into the town's educational complex is considering what is beneficial to the community as a whole.

The most salient consideration should be what will be both economical and serve the best interests of the entire school population.

Certainly the school committee will look at the cost factor of again converting the building back to educational use.

Also to be considered is the possibility of the building's educational application in view of a continuing population growth, thus avoiding new school construction within a few years, which now seems to be a concern of many in both the school department and the town.

As for some of the other suggested factors, class-size is something which is perpetually addressed by school administrators. Forecast for the coming school year indicates that the class sizes will be more within the prescribed Andover guidelines than in the past, which bodes well for the community. In future years, depending on population growth and the economic constraints placed upon the school department, the ratio may once again be off, but there is little that can be done, given the budgetary boundaries provided by the townspeople.

Long bus rides, it is felt, is not a serious problem for youngsters, nor is moving from one neighborhood to another to attend classes such a traumatic experience as one might imagine. Youngsters of any age have a natural ability to make friends easily and acclimate themselves to conditions and environments quite rapidly.

Adults sometimes find such experiences difficult, often due more to being personally inconvenienced.

The school committee has assured the community that all ramifications will be considered before an ultimate decision is made on the Shawsheen building. Too, the board will announce in advance when that decision will be made, in order to allow for additional parental input.

Understandably, the board will listen to all concerns before making its decision.

But it is to be hoped that when the ultimate vote is cast, the board will be cognizant of the total community and the application of the bricks and mortar of the Shawsheen to the town's overall educational needs.

The board has been faced with similar decisions in the past, oddly enough concerning the closing of two elementary schools in town.

Now, looking at a building's reopening, the appeals again are placed before them.

When facing the school-closing issues of the past, the committee grasped the issues squarely and, despite personal pleas, voted properly in reassigning pupils elsewhere, it being in the best interests of the entire community to do so.

Although board membership has changed since then, there is a confidence that this school committee will act in a similar manner.

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago — February 1909

In the entire life of the town, we doubt if there is such a record of expenditure, overdraft, and general mixup of accounts and extravagance, as will be shown by the forthcoming report of the highway department. If the present management is to be continued, the duty of the annual town meeting is very clearly to make some cast iron appropriations for this department, and hold the official in charge to very much close accountability than has been manifest during the past year.

The members of the Eagles baseball club and their lady friends, to the number of about 35, enjoyed (?) a sleigh ride to Lowell last Friday night. If the reader will recall the mild weather that prevailed at that time, he will not wonder that it was about five o'clock Saturday morning when the Eagles came soaring home again.

On Wednesday afternoon the Merlins of castles of the Knights of King Arthur in this vicinity met at the South church to elect general officers of a "Lowell District Conclave." At present ten castles make up the District. They are in Lowell, Andover, Merrimack, Wilmington, Billerica, and Westford.

Carl Sandburg is a poet, biographer, and philosopher. He has lived close to the life of the prairie and the factory town, and has caught its essence, giving it back poems after deep brooding. Mr. Sandburg will speak in the meeting room at Phillips Academy on the evening of Monday, Feb. 5, at 8.15. There will be no charge for admission and the academy cordially invites the citizens of Andover to be present.

A total of $7,330 was granted the town this week for use in continuing the local CWA work until Feb. 15. The new projects were started yesterday morning, to take the place of three that had been completed. Another section of Chandler road is being graveled under the new grant, and $2,755.20 has been set aside for this purpose.

Pupils at the Indian Ridge School have been forced to remain away from school the past few days because the heating system went out of order Wednesday. Workmen have been endeavoring to remedy the trouble. It is hoped that the children will be able to return Monday.

On Naming Buildings

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

I have been reading in your paper about the question of names for the two wings of the old East Junior High School. Let it be known that both buildings were given names many years ago by town meetings.

Let us start with the east wing. Town meeting voted to name that the Clara A. Putnam Junior High School. Along with the auditorium and gymnasium the original appropriation was made at a special town meeting in the baseball cage at Phillips Academy on the night of December 11, 1933. It was one of the first P.W.A. projects in the Roosevelt Administration. The Federal Government was bearing a third of the cost. Early in 1934, before the construction got under way, the Federal Government through the P.W.A. (Public Works Administration) issued a directive to the effect that no P.W.A. project should be named for a living person. Consequently, the name of Clara Putnam was dropped. The east wing became the Andover Junior High School. Miss Putnam had returned as principal of the old Stowe Junior High School shortly before.

Only us old folks knew Miss Putnam. She is entirely unknown to the young people and to the new people in town. She was "Old Andover." She taught in the Bradlee School in Ballardvale and took over as principal of the Stowe Grammar School in September of 1916. During the fall term Miss Putnam and Henry C. Sanborn, then the new superintendent of schools, worked out plans to establish the Stowe Junior High School which became a reality on the second of January 1917. There were three grades in the Stowe building at that time, sixth, seventh and eighth. Only the seventh and eighth were included in the junior high. Under the plan all seventh and eighth graders throughout the town were brought in to the Stowe building. They came in from Bradlee School in Ballardvale, the Richardson School in Shawsheen Village, Indian Ridge School on Cuba street, West Center, which stood on Beacon Street near the corner of Lowell Street, the old North School, still standng on River Road, also two one-room buildings, the Osgood and the Bailey schools on Osgood Street and Bailey Road. There was no such thing as a junior high school in any community for miles around here. It was something new. It was a big deal and Andover had it. It was Clara Putnam and Henry Sanborn Clara Putnam is best remembered for this frequent remark, "Do the right thing for righteous sake." There were no problems of discipline. There was no vandalism. There was no theft. A boy went out the north side door on a very windy day. The door slammed and the large glass panel broke. She insisted that he pay for the glass. The students did the right thing because Miss Putnam said that it was the right thing. We all thought that it was a good idea because she said so

The east wing, which will house all the school department offices was paid off long ago and the Federal Government has been out of the picture for years. There should be no question that the name of the building should be the Clara A. Putnam Building.

Let us now look to the west wing. This was built in 1917 as Punchard High School, placed in front of the old Punchard building which was retained and used for various classes. When Benjamin Punchard died in 1850, he left money to build the original building and he left an endowment fund of $70,000 which, along with another $7,000 left by his widow, was used to run the school, administered by a board of remain in complete control until such time as a town manager has taken office. Town Counsel Vincent A. Stulgis has ruled that the five-member Board may exercise all the powers it has formerly had, until the manager is actually in office here. Then, Stulgis said, the present Board may be abolished or may be continued on an appointive basis at the will of the manager.

Selectman Sidney P. White has refuted claims that the Selectmen have raised their own pay in the budget to be presented to town meeting March 7. He said the budget figure is at the rate of $1,000 per Selectman for the year 1959 — the pay now existing.

10 Years Ago — February 1974

An eight-week undercover investigation at Andover High led to the arrest of four juveniles and one adult on drug charges last Wednesday. While details were sketchy, in order not to prejudice the cases when they came to court — it appeared that the secret investigation was conducted by Andover detectives and undercover men, with the knowledge of Superintendent Kenneth Seifert. Even high School Principal Philip Wormwood said he got his information "second hand."

Due to increased costs of raw materials and a decreasing amount of sales, as of Feb. 1, 1974, ice cream will no longer be sold in the Andover schools. Various snack items will be sold on a trial basis to judge if this will satisfy student needs. Items such as apples, oranges, nabs, potato chips and the like, will be on sale during the noon meal.

Andover High School juniors will cover the town today through next Tuesday, selling magazine subscriptions to earn money for class coffers. The students, who will be identified with blue and gold ribbons, will be able to accept subscriptions to more than 150 magazines.

Election Interest Is In Housing Board

With less than two weeks to the deadline for filing nomination papers, it still appears that three incumbents will face no opposition in the annual town election next month.

Four candidates, however, will apparently vie for a seat on the Andover Housing Authority.

Town Clerk Elden Salter said this week that no candidates have filed their nomination papers for the March election, although several have taken out papers; the filing deadline is Monday, Feb. 13.

Salter reported that Selectman Donn Byrne is the only citizen to date who has taken out papers for his seat on the five-member board. Likewise, School Committeeman Michael Giammusso is the only candidate who has taken out papers for his school committee position.

And James Doherty is the only candidate who has taken out papers for the town moderator's seat, a position he has held for the past several years.

The only contested slot will apparently be a vacancy on the housing authority; Winston Blake is stepping down from the AHA this year.

The four residents who have taken out papers for that seat are Ronald Hajj, Eileen Connolly, Mary Ann Smith and Thomas Walsh, Jr.

The annual town election will be held 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday, March 26, at Andover High School's Dunn Gymnasium.

Trails

the loop for skiing only when they first learned of it last November; in December, the committee passed a unanimous resolution recommending that the state rescind its ski trail decision until it was further discussed with the committee.

She added that initially, DEM said the trail would be restricted to skiing only when there were at least four inches of snow on the ground. However, Keck said signs now posted at the trail do not mention snow depth, and that she believes use of the trail has been restricted during the past month when there was less than four inches of snow.

Gilbert Bliss, DEM director of forest and parks, this week said the state is "monitoring" use of the new trail with a questionnaire given to skiers on selected days. The survey will attempt to pinpoint such information as where the skiers are coming from, how they are using the forest on the survey date, and how they customarily use the forest.

Advisory committee members have been asked to work with the state to conduct the survey.

State officials formed the forest advisory committee, made up of local residents, last May. The committee's primary purpose is to help establish a forest management plan, which will include proposals for recreational use of the forest.

trustees, elected by ballot every three years. Certainly, it is fitting and proper that the Punchard name be retained on the building. Let it be the Punchard Town Office Building.

So, what about the Town Hall and the Theatre Buildings. I would propose that the Town Hall could be used by the townspeople. Phillips Academy has the Addison Gallery for American Art. The town could have the Old Town Hall for Andover Art. We have a wonderful art department in the schools and certainly there are hundreds of adults in town who, along with the children, could display their talents in the town hall. We also have a fine music department in the schools and perhaps many of the young people along with many older people could use a section of the building. Perhaps, also, dramatic groups might find a place for their purposes.

Then, we come to the Theatre Building, the old railroad station. It is truly an historic site and should be designated as such. It's going to be destroyed. The contract is signed. Contracts can be changed if enough people are interested. No one living remembers when the railroad came up from Lowell Junction, behind the South School, out through Recreation Park, through Spring Grove Cemetery, down Abbot Street, to Phillips Street, across the junction, across the old Abbot Academy playfield between the houses on Central and Abbot Streets, out by the South Church, across Christ Church property, across Brooke Street behind the Swift house, below the Baptist church to Essex Street to the station (the Theatre Building) across Pearson Street past the freight house (later the old Crystal Palace where the fire station is now) on down North Main Street and up through Sweeney Court and out thrugh Hartigan Court to High and Harding Streets and on down High Street (the old railroad) past Carmel Woods, to North Andover and on to Haverhill. There was no Lawrence, but when Lawrence built up, the railroad was built along the present road bed.

While it is still standing and with a town meeting coming up, the history-minded people could do something to have the old Theatre Building declared an historic site and get some government money.

Kitchen Design

David A. Clement, designer

In the days of maids and butlers, eating in the dining room was traditional. Today, however, families tend to live more casually, and comfortable dining often centers around the kitchen table. Even if your kitchen does not appear large enough to entertain a conventional table and chairs, do not rule out a snack counter or eating nook. The eat-in kitchen offers the advantage of simplified serving and clean-up chores. A unified food preparation-eating area also offers the appeal of eating in a room that is permeated with tantalizing aromas. A kitchen designer can help put visual distance between the dining and work areas.

Whatever size your kitchen is, it can be more efficient when planned and remodeled by the professionals here at WINDSOR KITCHENS. Any kitchen or bath that is designed by us, is always done to the customers specifications and desires. Give us a call! Our phone is 372-3444 or drop by, we're located on Rt. 125 in Ward Hill (½ mile North of Western Electric) and we're open Mon.-Thurs. 9AM-5:30PM, Fri. 9AM-8PM, Sat. 9AM-4PM evening by appointment.

St. Robert's Gold Leader

By Rick Harrison

St. Robert's B reaffirmed its position atop the Intermediate Gold Division of the Andover Church Basketball League last week, putting on an awesome display enroute to a 60-13 victory over South A at the West Elementary school gym.

In other Gold action, once-beaten St. Augustine's A stopped St. Robert's C 39-22 and West Parish trimmed St. Robert's A 33-18.

Paul DeMarco of SRB and John Russell of St. Augustines's A, both of whom had big offensive nights, are the new division scoring leaders with 58 points apiece.

Pat Kelley of West Parish is now third with 50 points and James Spinelli of SRB has 44.

West Parish, 33-18

Pat Kelley tossed through five first-quarter points, sparking West Parish to a commanding 11-0 lead, and the winners were able to maintain a healthy advantage over St. Robert's A the rest of the way.

SRA trailed 19-9 at halftime and 27-15 after three periods.

West Parish Leads The Pack

By Rick Harrison

Defending champion West Parish took over sole possession of first place in the Senior Division of the Andover Church Basketball League last week, beating St. Augustine 45-25 while Temple Emanuel handed Ballardvale United its first loss 49-33 in action at the Doherty Junior High gym.

The victory kept West Parish undefeated at 5-0, while Temple is a half-game back at 5-1 and Ballardvale stands a full game behind at 4-1.

In last week's other ACBL Senior contest, St. Robert's B trimmed intra-church rival St. Robert's A 44-25.

St. Robert's B, 44-25

Twin brothers, Gary and Cliff Marotta, combined talents for 30 points, sparked St. Robert's B to its convincing triumph over St. Robert's A.

SRB grabbed an 11-7 lead after one quarter, stretched it to 20-11 by halftime and really broke it open with an 11-3 scoring edge in the fourth period.

Gary led eight SRB players into the point column with 16 while Cliff added 14 as that pair outscored SRA in a game punctuated by 42 personal fouls that led to 54 free throws by the two teams.

Jim Davis contributed 5 points for the winners, Steve DeVoir 3, Greg DeVoir one basket, Scott Friese two free throws, Mark O'Sullivan one foul shot and Ed Sheehan one charity.

Mike French and John Davis also played well for SRB.

Billy Dutton was the highest of seven St. Robert's A marksmen with 9 points, while Eric Green hooped 5 and Brad Wright added 4.

Dave Lewis and Melanie Danner had fieldgoals, Kaios Ryan converted two free throws and Tom Sheehan notched a single foul shot.

Other hustling performances came from SRA hoopsters Bruce Taylor, Yvonne Guzley and Bill Martin.

West Parish, 45-25

Larry Aiello poured through 10 first-quarter points as West Parish raced to a commanding 18-4 lead, but scrappy St. Augustine's fought back and trailed by only seven points early in the third quarter.

West Parish, enroute to its 18th straight victory, was able to build the lead back to 33-21 after three quarters before putting it away with a 12-4 last-period surge.

Guard Mike DiMeo's hustling defensive play helped get WP on track in the second half.

Larry Aiello led all scorers with 19 points, while Chris Poor pocketed 9 points and DiMeo added 8.

Scott Kelly delivered a pair of second-half buckets for four points while Dave Curtis and Kurt Nickerson tossed in fieldgoals and Matt Fardy swished a free throw.

Jamie Carew played a strong game off the boards as did Aiello. Other West Parish standouts were Ted Andry, Matt Burke and Craig Costanzo.

Steve Surette and Steve McGettrick ignited the hustling St. Augustine's squad with 8 and 6 points, respectively.

Andy Zompa notched four second-quarer points, Phil Kendall and Mike McHale added baskets, Kyle Murphy netted two free throws and Shawn Cummins had one foul shot.

Ryan Murphy and Paul Davies also played well for St. Augustine's.

Temple Emanuel, 49-33

Temple snapped a 9-9 first-period deadlock with a 15-4 second quarter run, assuming a 24-13 haltime lead and the winners then traded buckets with Ballardvale United in the final two perods.

This contest was interrupted by 40 persnal fouls with the rivals combining to take 47 free throws.

Stu Leinson and Eric Shenker, who pooled efforts to account for all 15 Temple points in the second period, were top scorers once again with 19 and 17 points, respectively.

Geoff Bolan came through with nine points while single buckets were scored by Mickey Shallop and Steve Weiner.

Eric Bucholz, Jeremy Marmer and Jeff Shapiro also played well for the victors.

Mike Gibbons led the answering charge for Ballardvale with a personal season-high 12 points.

Scott Jangro chipped in 8 points, including 4-of-6 at the free throw line, and Dave Gardner joined Andy Cornell with 4-point efforts.

Dave Rehe canned a third-period fieldgoal, Mike Mooney swished a pair of free throws in the fourth quarter and Bobby Nutter rounded out the BU offense with a fourth-stanza foul shot.

Junior Division Resumes

St. Robert's C overpowered Christ Church 21-7 and St. Augustine's B trimmed South Church 11-6 to remain undefeated in the Andover Church Basketball League Junior Division as action resumed last week following a two-round break because of inclement weather.

St. Robert's B nipped Temple Emanuel 12-10, St. Augustine's D stopped St. Robert's D 16-6, Ballardvale United slipped past St. Augustine's C 12-10 and St. Augustine's A eked out a 10-9 victory over St. Robert's A.

St. Robert's C, 21-7

Matt Reghitto and Keith Selvitelli led a balanced scoring attack as St. Robert's C upped its record to 5-0 with a convincing win over a tough Christ Church team.

The score was 8-0, 10-2 and 15-3 at the first three checkpoints.

Reghitto and Selvitelli had 5 points apiece, Wayne Mattola chipped in 4, Paul Durant 3, Mike Famiglietti 2 and Chris Shea 2.

Ben Russell was game-high for CC with six points while Josua Kelly converted a free throw.

Nicole Angelo, Kerry Hagerty and Christene Petrilla played well for Christ Church.

St. Augustine's B, 11-6

St. Augustine's B, tied 4-4 at halftime, erupted to outscore South Church 6-0 in the third quarter to seal its fifth victory without a blemish.

Tom Torrisi and Paul Lisiak paced the St. A's offense with three points each, all in the pivotal third period, Todd Green and Bobby Lee delivered solo baskets and John Gabriel netted a foul shot.

Mike Platti was another standout for SAB.

Scott Eggert led South Church with 4 points, Joshua Adams had 2. Sam Pfeifle also played well.

St. Robert's B, 12-10

St. Robert's B, sparked by the torrid shooting of Greg Poor, barely managed to stave off a late rally by Temple Emanuel to gain its third win in five decisions.

SRB had a 12-4 lead entering the fourth quarter but TE, with six unanswered points, had the victors on the ropes until the final buzzer.

Poor hit double figures with 10 points while Bret Green notched a first-period fieldgoal.

Jeff Parker, David Livingston and William Sullivan were defensive stalwarts for SRB.

Adam Goddess was practically the entire offense for TE with 8 points while David Bromberg notched 2.

Other strong contributors were Marc Elzweig, Albert Shenker and Andrew Leinson.

St. Augustine's D, 16-6

Matt Marvin, Peter Cookson and Shawn McMaster combined talents for all 16 points to boost St. Augustine's D to a triumph over an undermanned St. Robert's D squad.

Marvin and Cookson flipped through 6 points each while McMaster scored 4.

Other leaders were Shane McMaster, Patricia Lopez, Andrew Paradis and Brendan Sullivan.

Kevin Nazzaro, with six points, provided all of the answering fire for SRD, while Steve Martin, Jennifer Jarek, Corrine Angelo and Todd Kobelski also played well.

The St. Robert's team was handicapped by the absence of high scorers Chris Dziadosz and Jeremy McSorley out with the flu.

Andover Hockey Association

Andover's Squirt A's ran their season's record to 36-5-3 last week when they defeated Newburyport 6-2 in a Danvers League game and Reading 4-1 in a Wilmington League game. The Newburyport win strengthened Andover's hold on first place in the Danvers League (16-0-0) while the Reading win gave Andover a hold on third place in Wilmington (14-3-1).

Andover 6 - Newburyport 2

After a sluggish first period, Andover totally dominated Newburyport. Brian Lane's rush and unassisted goal gave Andover a 1-0 lead eight minutes into the first period but Newburyport tied it up on a fluke bouncing puck goal less than a minute later. Then Andover's second line took over and generated three goals. Chris Pothier snapped a wrist shot past the goalie 38 seconds after the Newburyport goal to give Andover a lead it would never relinquish. A good pass from John Melillo set up the goal.

Two Andover goals in the second period extended the lead to 4-1. Melillo scored the first, completing an excellent passing play with linemates Colin Nix and Pothier while Lane's second length of the ice rush and goal accounted for the other goal. Newburyport's second period offensive thrusts were well contained by Andover's defensemen, most notably by Peter Arthur.

By Kim Kupa

Katie O'Sullivan snagged a win for St. Robert's A with a basket in the first overtime match of the season against Christ Church last week in Girls' Intermediate Church Basketball League play at the West Elementary School gym.

Other games left St. Augustine's A on top in a 16-9 victory over St. Augustine's C while St. Augustine's B was overpowered by St. Robert's B 34-10 and Ballardvale United struggled past St. Robert's C in a 21-20 decision.

St. Robert's A, 9-7 OT

Leading 6-3 in the first quarter, St. Robert's A held the lead until the fourth quarter when the score was tied 7-7 by a basket by Meg Hoyt. Katie O'Sullivan snapped the deadlock, adding two points to the previous foul shot she collected in the third quarter. Gaining game-high honors was Kara Slavin who sparked St. Robert's lead with two buckets in the first period. Monica Davis delivered a basket to balance out the offense.

Other solid performances came from Dawn Bernard, Christene Spignesi, Julie Grzybinski and Kristene O'Sullivan.

The second-half Christ Church surge was led by Hoyt with a bucket and a charity. Leslie Wilkinson and Lisa Allen with a free throw each and Liz Hanson who chipped in a first-quarter fieldgoal.

Keri Lynch, Heather Reghitto, Regan Jones and Becky Robinson made outstanding defensive efforts.

St. Robert's B, 34-10

St. Robert's B was led in the scoring column by the deadly shooting of Susan Boush with a record 16 points. Although St. Augustine's B managed to convert four free throws in the fourth quarter to cut the 28-6 deficit, their late effort could not stop the hot St. Robert's B shooting. Boush scored six baskets and netted 4 foul shots. Sheleen Cassily sank two hoops in the second period. Helanie Danner and Nina Sheel pumped through two buckets and Lynn Baker, Michelle DiStefano and Natalie Dowell each had a basket.

Kim Hein, Tara Cocozza and Nicole Kelley rounded out the match with fine floor games.

Erin McCloskey handled the bulk of the counterattack, swishing two hoops. Valiant efforts were made by Elizabeth Davies and Julie Veilleux, each contributing two points, while Maura Everett and Kathy Daly each notched a free throw. Bridget Murphy, Mary Ellen Lopez, Candis Royal and Katie Wise played well for St. Augustine's B.

Ballardvale United, 21-20

Ballardvale nudged past St. Robert's C 21-20. In the second half when the score started at 11-8, both teams evenly traded baskets, rallying for the advantage. With the score 21-20 and 30 seconds in the game, an injury interrupted play. The game resumed after a 15-minute interval. St. Robert's had possession of the ball, but was unable to score.

Ballardvale's offensive attack as directed by Kim Lowe who hit four baskets, three in the second quarter. Following close behind with four points each were Jodi Jangro and Erin Lynch while Lisa Campbell and Nicole Ricci chipped in a basket each and Meredythe Fisk converted a free throw. Kim Nutter, Lisa Hayes and Jennifer Price added solid defensive efforts.

For St. Robert's C, Jacqueline Kupa topped the balance with 12 points. Elizabeth Wrobel delivered 6 and Joanne McNamara added 2. Defensive standouts Kimberly Davis, Julie Newman, Shelia Camillus and Gretchen Weitz were formidable floor forces.

St. Augustine's A, 16-9

Kristen Sullivan propelled St. Augustine's A's attack, reeling off six points while April Williams and Debbie Donovan pocketed two baskets each and Susan Garabedian collected a bucket in the fourth quarter to seal the win.

Lisa Bruno, Diane Hinchey, Andie Harris and Tricia Novelline were defensive leaders for the victors.

The balanced counter-attack was paced by Kelley Hajj, who finished the game with three points. Cutting the deficit from 6-2 to 6-4 in the second quarter was Zahia Kattar, converting a pair of free throws. Maureen Morrow and Jennifer Scarpone each fired through a basket to aid the offense. Amy Brockles- by, Stacey Reilly, Sarah Skelton and Kelly Walsh combined talents to provide defensive coverage.

PMBI Classes

Programs in Management for Business and Industry, Lesley College's innovative degree program for working adults, is organizing classes in Chelmsford and Methuen.

Open meetings are scheduled for Monday, Feb. 13, at the Town Offices, 50 Billerica Road, Chelmsford, and Thursday, Feb. 16, at Nevins Library, 305 Broadway, Methuen, at 6 p.m. to provide more information about the study program.

PMBI offers two degrees: a bachelor of science in organizational behavior or the master of science in applied management.

The undergraduate course is a degree-completion program for adults with at least 56 transferable credits from a regionally accredited college or university. The master's program is open to individuals who hold a bachelor's degree from an accredited insitution.

New Exhibit

The Peabody Museum of Salem opens a new exhibit, Beyond Tradition, on Saturday, Feb. 4, composed of contemporary ceramics by master Japanese potter Hajime G. Kozuru and augmented by pieces from the museum's collections.

Until 1980, Kozuru lived and worked in Japan where he was (and still is) recognized as the best in his field, winning countless honors and amassing prestige and fame. He found himself growing dissatisfied with his work and feared he was becoming imprisoned by his country's fairly conservative outlook towards ceramics.

TITLE INSURANCE

As you come near the end of negotiations for the home you want to buy, the matter of title insurance may come up as part of the closing costs. Simply put, title insurance means that an organization insures the title against defects, and will pay off if the insured sustains any losses because of title defects.

A defective title is a title that could give you problems - and sometimes, to put it mildly, BIG ones - later on, such as finding out that a railroad has the right to run its tracks through your living room! Other possible defects could be a forged title, or problems caused by a surveyor who didn't get his triangulations right, with the result that a person bought land that the seller didn't actually own!

When a home is sold, both the mortgage lender AND the buyer take out title insurance. The cost is relatively low in comparison with the protection this type of insurance affords; furthermore you only pay the premium once for coverage as long as you or your heirs have interest in the property.

President

Laurence R. Smith, executive vice president of the Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce, was elected president of the Massachusetts Association of Chamber of Commerce Executives, a professional association of chief executives and staff executives in Chamber of Commerce management from throughout the state.

The group is involved in a communications network with chambers in the state, the Massachusetts Business Roundtable, Associated Industries of Massachusetts, the Massachusetts Taxpayers Foundation and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The other major facet of the organization is professional development in Chamber of Commerce management.

Child Abuse Cases High

Reports of child abuse and neglect during the first six months of fiscal year 1984 were 36 percent higher than the comparable period, fiscal 1983, within Region III, the North Shore-Merrimack Valley region of the Massachusetts Department of Social Services.

DSS is the state agency mandated to receive and investigate reports of suspected abuse and neglect.

In order to reinforce the impact of widely watched television specials on sexual abuse and incest, DSS has contacted superintendents of public schools in all 53 communities of the region offering follow-up educational programs within their school systems.

The Department of Social Services was established by the Legislature in 1980 to provide community-based services to children and families living in Massachusetts.

The DSS 24-hour Child Abuse Hotline is 1-800-792-5200.

Maintenance

municipalities to return to their fiscal year 1982 levy limit to calculate the two and one-half percent increase in the levy limit allowed each year under Proposition 2½.

(The provision is designed to eliminate the permanent "penalty" to a community that can result if its levy limit drops one year. The tax increases that communities may pick up under the provision can be continued indefinitely.)

Although municipal maintenance has identified $3.5 million worth of maintenance projects that need attention, the town manager has not yet decided which items will be given top priority — which will be done this year and which will wait.

The only project that has a clear priority is converting the Shawsheen School from school administration offices, its current function, to an early childhood education center (or an elementary school, if the School Committee decides not to go with the all-town kindergarten after looking at final cost analyses.)

Because the school will be reopened to students next September, in one form or another, "is has to be fixed and it has to be fixed now," Mahony says.

Converting the Shawsheen may cost some $200,000: That number, however, is subject to change, depending on how the school is used and whether it is made fully accessible to handicapped students. The estimate includes the cost of bringing the building into compliance with state building codes.

Other areas earmarked for major work — again, town officials have yet to decide when these projects might be undertaken — include:

- repairing or replacing roofs at the West Elementary, West Junior High and Bancroft schools (estimated at $700,000);
- upgrading town and school playing fields ($250,000) and improving watering of playing fields ($15,000);
- repairing or replacing electrical heat units in about 30 Andover High School classrooms ($20,000);
- renovating the boiler room and structural floor brace at Bancroft ($7,500).

When the municipal maintenance department was created last year, existing personnel from other school and town departments — mainly the Public Works department — were used to staff the new department. This year the DPW budget, no longer effected by the municipal maintenance budget, will increase from a current $3.2 million to $3.5 million.

A "big chunk" of that increase is alloted for a new solid waste disposal contract, Mahony says. The town's five-year solid waste contract is up for renewal, and the manager is recommending an $85,300 increase to cover the possible cost [illegible] contract.

DPW salaries will also increase by six percent under negotiated wage settlements, he adds. And the manager is recommending funding for two new DPW positions, a water superintendent at $35,423 and a diesel and electric pump station operator at $19,168.

The total increase in the DPW budget is less than ten percent, the manager points out.

The first subway in the U.S. opened in Boston 1897.

Phil Greene of Andover will be producer/director of this show. For more information, call the Greenes, 24 Haverhill St., North Reading.
